Sea Fever

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by;
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a grey mist on the sea's face, and a grey dawn breaking.

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied;

And all I ask is a windy day with the white clouds flying,
And the flung spray and the blown spume, and the sea-gulls crying.

I must go down to the seas again, to the vagrant gypsy life,
To the gull's way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife;

And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow-rover,
And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.

John Masefield, 1902

London Shell Co. - an endearing escape from the hustle and bustle of London life

Because life is far too short and good wines make great entertainment, the wines in this drinks list have been categorised and organised by species of fish. Collectively, as a team, we have scrutinised, swigged and swirled every bottle here. We've wasted hours debating whether Assyrtiko* from Santorini identifies as a saline Oyster or a formidable Turbot. These aren't food and drink pairings per se, it's actually more simple than that. Just like a pub wine list, the bottles are arranged by weight and body. The lightest and freshest will appear first and the fullest weight numbers will make an appearance at the end. All we ask is that you don't take our wines too seriously. Any choice you make will definitely be a good one. All of the wines here are fun and we've had a marvellous time putting this together. If you feel slightly out of your depth, ask us questions, we would love to pick a wine for you.

The wine list is a rather beautiful thing: both relatively short and idiosyncratic
Jay Rayner - The Guardian

Not once did I feel like a tourist. Just a Londoner walking on water
Fay Maschler - Evening Standard

I love going to restaurants, but it's rare that I get such a tingle of boyish excitement about it.

Michael Deacon - Telegraph

*Assyrtiko from Santorini is a fascinating wine that defies categories. It's high alcohol, full-bodied, mineral, volcanic, electric, bracing and other wordly...
